

Everything's possible

Dental problems that arose early in their teenage years made Célia and Susana ashamed of showing their even to those who are closest to them. Thanks to MALO CLINIC, the two are now able to smile again with confidence and they both feel their lives will change. Get to know their stories a little better...

Célia Rosa, 44, is married and has three children. She was living with dental problems since she was a teenager and, at 16, her superior teeth were taken off. She was ashamed to say that she was wearing a removable prosthesis, a fact she hid for a long time even from her own husband. And when she was doing her daily hygiene she would put a towel in front of the mirror so that she would not have to see herself. Now, after MALO CLINIC helped her recover the smile she had long lost, she says she is "super happy to be able to eat again and to see herself in the mirror as she loved doing when she was younger."

Susana Vieira is 40 years old. She is now unemployed but has worked as a dental assistant for a while despite a traumatic experience she had when she was 12 that left her in fear of going to the dentist for many years. At the age of 18 she began to use a removable prosthesis which, however, caused her discomfort while eating and talking. Due to that, she avoided having dinner with friends and not even at home she let anyone see her without the prosthesis. For her, getting her smile back thanks to MALO CLINIC was "like winning the Euromillions". She is a person who loves to laugh, but she used to avoid doing it and she covered her mouth in shame. Now she believes that everything will change on a personal and professional level and she is sure that her self-esteem "will grow quite a bit".
